Hello, friends!

Every time I open the newspaper, I come across news of Mumbai facing the threat of water shortages in the future. Even our housing societies and residential communities are now discussing the importance of saving water. I wonder if you share my concern. This reminds me that each of us has a role to play, and even small actions can make a meaningful difference.

We sincerely thank our respected HOS Ma'am for her constant encouragement and for entrusting us with AGSJMUN 2026, empowering our young delegates to think globally, collaborate meaningfully and become responsible changemakers.

At Ajmera Global School, our Sustainability Club and little learner squads are working to save water by collecting leftover water from students' bottles and reusing it for gardening and ground-floor washrooms. Imagine the impact we could create if everyone took one small step towards sustainability!

Sustainability protects our planet and secures a better future for generations to come. It requires global cooperation, dialogue and compromise, values that lie at the heart of MUN.

As we come together for 2nd AGSJMUN 2026, let us remember that every small action counts. May our discussions inspire meaningful solutions and our resolutions pave the way for a more sustainable future.

Wishing all delegates an impactful and enriching MUN experience!

From the Sec Gen's Desk:

Small Actions, Big Impact

Secretary General: Ms. Nisha Bhatia

Dear delegates of Junior Model United Nations and JMUN advisors,

When we chose "Small Actions, Big Impact" as our theme, we recognised that everyday habits, choices and examples can create a much greater impact when brought together.

This conference invites you to bring that spirit into diplomacy. In UNEP, you will explore ways to protect our planet; in ECOSOC, how to make sustainable development accessible to all; and in WHO, how protecting people and the planet go hand in hand.

The best diplomats are curious, respectful listeners who can disagree without disrespect and compromise without losing their principles. Listen before you respond, appreciate good ideas wherever they come from, and write clauses that real governments can put into action, not just ones that sound impressive.

To our JMUN advisors, thank you for your guidance, patience and constant support in shaping these young voices.

To every delegate, you may not solve the world's challenges in one conference, but you can practise the skills that drive real change: empathy, critical thinking and the courage to turn ideas into action. Take these skills back to your classrooms, homes and communities.

The world is waiting for your small actions. I cannot wait to see their impact!

With warm regards,
Nisha Bhatia
2nd AGSJMUN Secretary General

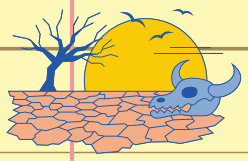
UNEP Day 1 Heats Up

Day 1 at UNEP was a real breath of fresh air, at least for the debate. The USA and Russia clashed like two colliding weather fronts, Brazil branched out with strong points on habitat destruction, and a few delegates were caught snoozing instead of rooting for their country. The Chair's one rule: no personal pronouns, which left some delegates stumped.



DAY 2 Voting

Talk turned to action on Day 2. Delegates voted on the habitat destruction resolutions, either for, against or abstaining, and the chair announced each result. Some blocs held firm, others switched sides at the last minute, and every vote counted.

Moment of the Day

USA was asked how it can preach forest conservation while clearing land for pipelines, and the USA had no answer. A tree-mendous question.

MUNologue : Inside the Journalist's Mind

At first, the session started slow. I wondered what to write, and my pen was just barking up the wrong tree. But then the USA and Russia clashed, and suddenly I was writing faster than a wildfire.

Avoid wasting paper. Use both sides of a sheet before taking a new one. Saving paper helps reduce the demand for trees and supports the protection of wildlife habitats.

Good Things Come to Those Who Share: ECOSOC

Sub-Agendas:

1. Access to Resources and Affordability
2. Responsible Consumption, Development and Sustainable Communities

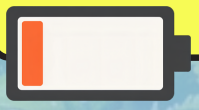
Day 1: ECOSOC-ialising with Diplomacy!

ECOSOC opened with the USA promising to use resources wisely. The delegates' answers, sadly, were not so renewable.

Iran powered through the day, countering everyone, until it got barred and had to cool down. Pakistan grilled India, which got so nervous it wrote its answer in a chit. Brazil wasn't ready for its animal questions, which sounded truly wild. Madagascar asked the USA about funds, and the budget was drained. Japan stayed silent, one way to conserve resources.

Day 2: Vote Now, Sustain Later

Delegates powered through the vote! Bloc 1 paved the way for affordable electricity and farmer support, while Bloc 2 brought clean energy to a charged debate. Some grew, others powered down, but all left renewed!



MUNologue : Inside the Journalist's Mind

Affordable electricity, farmer support, better roads... At this rate, ECOSOC needs an energy drink! My notebook is full, and the delegates are still generating arguments!

Plot Twist of the Day

Iran came for a debate but delivered a power surge! Nobody expected ECOSOC to get this charged!

DAY 1

WHO was declared "in good health" as Roll Call and the GSL got off to a smooth start!

Kenya stole the spotlight, leaving Somalia speechless and France flustered. Nigeria put the UK on the spot, while Japan earned applause for backing Germany and Somalia. The Chair had quite a workout! Somalia was barred twice for crosstalk, Brazil, Kenya, Russia and Pakistan received warnings, and Japan was warned for laughing. The personal pronoun rule sparked a heated China-Kenya exchange!

DAY 2

Mod Caucus 2 brought mosquitoes, pollution and cleanliness into the discussion, with Kenya and Brazil exchanging views. With arguments flying and tempers rising, WHO's first day was certainly not under the weather!

Day 2 was all about turning words into action! Delegates fine-tuned resolutions, negotiated final clauses and got ready to vote. With every clause under the microscope, WHO would get the final say?

The Prescription for Change

Take a leaf out of Kenya's book, sharpen those research skills and come prepared with facts! The Chair's advice: more research, fewer assumptions! WHO says otherwise?

MUNologue : Inside the Journalist's Mind

Kenya vs Russia, Kenya vs Chair... At this rate, WHO needs a health report when the real story is all the heated debates? My notebook needs a cool-down break!
